

Afterpay Privacy Policy - Australia

Effective Date: June 10, 2025

We appreciate that you trust us with your personal information. Here we provide an overview of what personal information we collect from you and why, how we handle it, and your rights and choices.

This Privacy Policy describes how your Afterpay entity and affiliates ("Afterpay," "we," "us", and "our") collects, uses, discloses, transfers, stores, retains and otherwise processes your personal information ("you", "your", and "customer") when you visit our website, download our app, apply for and use your Afterpay account, or otherwise interact and engage with us in relation to our customer products, features, and services, including as outlined in our General Terms and Specific Terms ("agreement") (collectively, "Services"). The Afterpay entity you are interacting with will be based on your country of residence. See 10. How to Contact Us below for more information.

This Privacy Policy also includes our Credit Reporting Policy (see Annexure. CREDIT REPORTING POLICY), that covers how we manage your credit information.

Partners, retailers, online marketplaces, and suppliers that Afterpay interacts with are independent of Afterpay and responsible for their own privacy policies and practices. This includes, content on their websites or app, and products or services provided. Please refer to their privacy policy or reach out directly to these third parties for further information.

1. PERSONAL INFORMATION WE COLLECT ABOUT YOU AND WHY

"Personal information" used throughout this Policy means any information about an identifiable individual, or information which may be used to reasonably identify an individual or as otherwise described in privacy laws that apply to you.

We collect and process personal information about you in three ways:

- (i) when you provide it to us directly;
- (ii) when we gather personal information while you are using any of our Services, including through cookies and similar technologies (see 4. How We Use Cookies and Similar Technologies below); and
- (iii) when we collect personal information from third party sources.

We explain in the table below what types of personal information we collect and process, how and why we do so. We will collect, use, disclose and otherwise process your personal information in accordance with applicable law and this Policy. We may collect or process personal information in other ways than as described below. We will let you know at that time, unless otherwise inappropriate or unlawful to do so.

If you fail or refuse to provide us with personal information we request from you directly, or we do not obtain your consent where we are required to rely upon it, including to gather personal information while you are using our Services or from third party sources, we may not be able to proceed with entering into or fulfilling some of our Services. Consequently, we will not be able to provide or continue to provide those Services to you. This includes, but without limitation, setting up your Afterpay account, or responding to a support request or complaint.

3. HOW WE SECURE YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION

We hold your personal information electronically in secure servers and in cloud storage which may be via our third party providers, and which may be located outside of Australia (see '7. International Data Transfers' for more details).

We take appropriate measures, including administrative, technical, and physical safeguards, to protect your personal information from loss, theft, and misuse, and unauthorised access, disclosure, alteration, and destruction. The internet is not a 100% secure environment, so we cannot guarantee absolute security of the transmission or storage of your information. We are an ISO 27001 compliant company, and require our third parties to meet appropriate privacy and security standards when handling data on our behalf.

4. HOW WE USE COOKIES AND SIMILAR TECHNOLOGIES

Cookies are small data files stored on your browser or device. They may be sent by the operator of the site or app you are visiting, in this case Afterpay ("first-party cookies"), or by third parties, such as our service providers and digital partners ("third-party cookies"). Other similar technologies may be used, such as tracking pixels or browser local storage (together "cookies"). For example, we partner with third-party analytics providers, like Google, to help us understand how you use our services so that we can improve your experience with us. The analytics providers that administer these services use cookies to help us analyse how you use our online services. We may disclose your site-use information (including IP address) to these analytics providers, and other service providers who use the information to help us figure out how you and others use our online services. To learn more about Google Analytics and how to opt out, please visit <https://marketingplatform.google.com/about/> or <https://support.google.com/analytics/answer/181881?hl=e>.

When you visit our website or app, we use cookies as necessary to make our Services work, to improve our performance and functionality, or to personalise your online experience.

You may see certain "interest-based advertising" or "targeted advertising" about us or other third parties on other websites or online services based on information relating to your access to and use of our Services and other websites. This is because we may work with interest-based advertisers to promote our Services and other third party products and services to the extent permitted by applicable law. We may provide third party service providers with personal information to deliver Afterpay and other third party advertisements on third party websites that may be tailored to your individual interests. These interest-based advertisers may also use personal information about you that they have independently collected and in accordance with their privacy policy and practices, including through the use of cookies.

Your browser or device may offer settings to control cookies. Selecting "Limit Ad Tracking" (for iOS devices), or "Opt out of Interest-Based Ads" (for Android devices), will allow you to limit our use of information collected from or about your mobile device (such as precise location data) for the purposes of serving interest-based advertising to you. You may also opt out of targeted advertising in your Afterpay app settings. In addition, you may opt out of receiving ads from us or third parties by using the third parties settings or by heading to Your Ad Choices for more information. As a heads up, blocking or opting-out of some types of cookies may impact your experience and the Services we are able to offer.

Certain web browsers allow you to instruct your browser to respond to Do Not Track ("DNT") signals to websites you visit, informing those sites that you do not want your online activities to be tracked. At this time, our websites are not designed to respond to DNT signals or similar mechanisms from browsers.

5. HOW LONG WE KEEP YOUR PERSONAL INFORMATION

The retention periods for personal information we collect and process about you are determined on a case-by-case basis that depends on the following factors below.

- The nature of the personal information, and why it is collected and processed, as described in this Privacy Policy. This includes to provide our Services, to comply with legal obligations, to enforce and prevent violations of our agreement with you, and to protect us against fraudulent activity.

- To manage and enforce our agreement with you. Your use of our Services is subject to the agreement between us. So if, for example, you close your Afterpay account, we retain personal information about you for a period of time so as to collect any debt or fees owed, resolve disputes, troubleshoot problems, assist with any investigations or complaints, and to prevent fraud or risk.
- To establish, exercise, or defend our legal claims or rights. For example, we preserve your personal information related to a legal claim or complaint, such as where we are subject to a regulatory investigation, or we need to defend ourselves in legal proceedings involving your personal information, or respond to a government authority or body in relation to a legal or regulatory complaint made by you or someone else.
- As required or otherwise permitted by applicable law. For example, retention periods may be imposed under law or regulation for a prescribed period of time (for example, in certain jurisdictions, up to 10 years under applicable anti-money laundering laws), and for instance, to protect our or other's legitimate interests, such as to prevent fraud.

6. YOUR RIGHTS AND CHOICES

You can request to see, access, change or correct personal information held by us, ask us to close your account, control your device location tracking settings, or tell us to stop sending you direct marketing or targeted advertising at any time. Head to our Help Centre at any time by clicking "Help" on our website or app for detailed instructions. We also respect other privacy rights and choices you make consistent with applicable law. These rights and choices available to you are based on your country of residence and which Afterpay entity you are dealing with, and are subject to limitations as required or permitted by applicable law.

We may ask you to verify your identity in accordance with our standard procedures, including any authorised agent who would like to act on your behalf, or clarify your request, before taking further action on your privacy right or choice request. We endeavour to respond and address all privacy rights and choices requests within the applicable statutory time frame. We will let you know if we need more time, and why. We may not always be able to fulfil your request if we have a legitimate basis to refuse it. We will tell you why, if permitted by applicable law. For example, if you seek to erase your personal data in a way that would mean we are not able to comply with our obligations under law, we may refuse your request.

We will not discriminate against you, deny, charge different prices or rates for, or provide a different level or quality of goods or services if you choose to request these rights and choices.

If you have a concern or complaint about how Afterpay has collected, held, disclosed or otherwise processed your personal information, or a potential breach of the Australian Privacy Principles, Part IIIA of the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) or Privacy (Credit Reporting) Code 2025, you can make a complaint to us, which we will address in accordance with our dispute resolution policy noted in your General Terms. If you are not satisfied with our response to your complaint or concern about how we handled your privacy or personal information, you can contact the OAIC. Alternatively, if the complaint is about Afterpay's Services, you may complain to AFCA.

If you would like to make a privacy right or choice request or raise a complaint or a concern, please refer to 10. How To Contact Us below.

See or change personal information you gave us

You can see your profile and payment details any time by logging into your Afterpay account on our website or app. You can change your address, delivery address, email address, phone number, and payment method at any time. If you notice that any personal information held by Afterpay is inaccurate, you can request that we correct the information. You can see other relevant information about you in your Afterpay account, including orders made and upcoming payments.

Where necessary to resolve your correction request, we may consult with other parties (e.g., to correct your credit related information, we may need to contact, or refer you to, contact credit reporting bodies or other lenders.)

Ask to access your information

You have the right to request a copy of your personal information held by us.

Control your device location tracking settings

In order to provide certain Services, we may request or require access to your location information, including precise geolocation information collected from your device. You can stop our collection of geolocation information at any time by changing the preferences on your mobile device. If you do, some of our Services may no longer function. You also may stop our collection of geolocation information via our app by following the standard uninstall process to remove the Afterpay app from your device. For more information, refer to 4. How We Use Cookies and Similar Technologies above.

Tell us to stop direct marketing to you

You can control your direct marketing preferences through the "Communication Settings" tab on our website or app. If you receive direct marketing emails from us, you can also opt out any time by clicking the unsubscribe link at the bottom of the message. If you decide to opt out of direct marketing, we'll still send you non-marketing communications such as notifications about your account, orders, and important updates to our Services.

For detailed instructions on direct marketing and the choices you can make, head to our Help Centre at any time by clicking "Help" on our website or app and search for "Marketing - Your Choices".

Marketing profiling and your rights

We create a profile about you and make predictions and inferences on what direct marketing we think you'd like to see from us or third parties based on your personal information.

The personal information we use to create a profile about you include:

- your demographics, such as, your age, inferred gender, and location (and geolocation), and aggregated performance criteria;
- purchase and spending habits, such as, your preferred Retailers and products, and the recency and frequency of engagement with us;
- how you interact with us, such as by clicking one of our marketing messages and then purchasing something from a retailer; and
- your classification, such as being a member of our rewards program. For further information, refer to the terms and conditions of the applicable rewards program.

We may use your profile to provide you with targeted advertising in app or on other websites or send you personalised news, promotions, and offers from us and other third parties. If you would prefer not to receive targeted advertising, you have the right to object and opt out at any time in your Afterpay app settings (under "Communication Settings").

7. INTERNATIONAL DATA TRANSFERS

Personal information we collect and handle about you may be transferred to or stored in a jurisdiction outside your country of residence and where the Afterpay entity you are dealing with operates. We may do so, for example without limitation, when sharing personal information with our affiliates and service providers to help us provide (or assess to provide) our Services or other third parties that we partner with. Your personal information may be transferred to or stored in Australia, New Zealand, the United States, Canada, United Kingdom, the European Union, China, Philippines and Singapore. We may transfer your personal information to other countries, but we will always take steps to ensure your personal information is afforded equivalent levels of protection and rights as are required under your country of residence and where the Afterpay entity you are dealing with operates. For more information please reach out using the details in 10. How to Contact Us below.

For further information about our policies and practices with respect to international data transfers, please refer to 10. How To Contact Us below.

8. CHILDREN'S PERSONAL INFORMATION

Our Services are not directed at children under the age of 18. If we learn that any personal information we collect has been provided by a child under the age of 18, we will promptly close the relevant account and delete that personal information as consistent with applicable law.

9. CHANGES TO THIS PRIVACY POLICY

We will occasionally update this Privacy Policy. Any amendments will be published by posting a revised version of the Privacy Policy and updating the "Effective Date" above. The revised version will be effective on the "Effective Date" listed. You will always be able to find the current version of our Privacy Policy (including Annexure. CREDIT REPORTING POLICY) on our website or on our app.

Annexure. CREDIT REPORTING POLICY

This Credit Reporting Policy applies to Afterpay Australia Pty Ltd ABN 15 169 342 947 ('Afterpay', 'we', 'us' or 'our'), and details how we collect and manage your "credit-related personal information" in connection with the Buy Now Pay Later account ("BNPL Account") issued by Afterpay and is to be read together with our Privacy Policy and any other privacy or collection statement that we provide to you.

The requirements of Part IIIA in the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth) ("Privacy Act") and the Privacy (Credit Reporting) Code 2025 ("Credit Reporting Code") apply to us.

For the purposes of this Credit Reporting Policy, "credit-related personal information" means 'credit information', 'credit eligibility information' and 'CP-derived information', as those terms are defined in the Privacy Act. Broadly, credit-related information includes the following personal information about you: information that we may disclose to a credit reporting body;

- information that we obtain from credit reporting bodies; and
- information that we derive from such information, for example, a credit score.

Collection of credit-related personal information

Afterpay may collect, hold and/or use the following about you:

- identity information – such as your name, address, contact details and driver's licence details;
- information requests– information about consumer or commercial credit you have applied for (including the lender's name, type, term and amount of credit, and repayment details) and that we have made an information request about you;
- your consumer credit – consumer credit provided to you, including details about the lender's name, licence details, consumer credit type, maximum amount, the start and end dates, and repayment terms;
- default information about you – when a payment owed to us or another lender is overdue for 60 days or more;
- serious credit infringement information – whether, in the opinion of a lender, you have committed a serious credit infringement in connection with consumer credit;
- publicly available information – court proceedings, personal insolvency information or other publicly available information about you relating to your creditworthiness;
- credit scoring – scores, ratings, summaries, evaluations and other information relating to your credit worthiness which is derived by us or by a credit reporting body;
- repayment history Information - this includes a history of your repayments, including whether you have made payments when due, and if not, when overdue payments have been made; and
- financial hardship information: this includes information about agreed financial hardship arrangements that you may have with us or other credit providers. Financial hardship information will be recorded with the repayment history information.

We use the credit-related personal information disclosed to us, including by a credit reporting body, to create credit scores and risk assessments regarding your creditworthiness.

How we collect and hold your credit-related personal information

We may collect credit-related personal information from a range of sources including:

- the data provided by you directly, or persons acting on your behalf (including through the application process for your BNPL account or when we derive information from your use of that account);
- from credit reporting bodies; and
- from the public domain.

We hold your credit-related personal information electronically in secure servers and in cloud storage, which may be located outside of Australia (see 'Overseas Disclosures' for more details).

Keeping your credit-related personal information secure is important to us. We take precautions to protect such information as set out in our Privacy Policy.

Why we collect, hold, use and disclose credit-related personal information

Afterpay may collect, hold, use and/or disclose your credit-related personal information to:

- confirm your identity;
- assess your application for a BNPL Account or to increase the spending limit of your BNPL account ("Application") and your ability to manage that credit;
- help manage the credit provided to you, including collecting overdue payments and assessing your financial hardship requests;
- derive credit scoring, ratings, summaries and evaluations about your credit-worthiness to use in our decision-making processes; and
- comply with our legal and regulatory obligations.

We may (as permitted by the Privacy Act and the Credit Reporting Code) disclose your credit-related personal information for the following purposes:

- to our legal and financial advisors; and
- for other purposes, as required or authorised by law.

We will also share your credit-related personal information with our credit reporting body partner, illion Australia, whose contact details are set out below:

Other notifiable matters

When requesting credit-related personal information from illion Australia, your consent for the request is not required. The information provided from illion Australia may be used to assess your credit worthiness. Please note that your credit score or credit rating calculated by illion Australia, may be affected when we make an information request.

If you fail to meet your payment obligations in relation to consumer credit provided by us (which includes your Afterpay BNPL account), or if you commit a serious credit infringement in relation to consumer credit provided by us, we may be entitled to disclose this to illion Australia.

Some of the information that we disclose may affect your credit worthiness, such as where we disclose information on overdue payments or where you commit a serious credit infringement. Additionally, your credit score or credit rating, as calculated by illion Australia may be affected where we make an information request from them for your credit information or credit worthiness.

illion Australia may include your credit-related personal information in reports to other credit providers, to assist them to assess your credit worthiness.

illion Australia offers a service to credit providers such as Afterpay wishing to send direct marketing material about credit services to individuals called "credit pre-screening". You have the right to ask illion Australia not to use your credit reporting information for pre-screening for direct marketing purposes.

If you reasonably believe you are, have been or are likely to be the victim of fraud, you have the right to ask illion Australia not to use or disclose your credit reporting information.
